The more things change, the more you need from your solutions.

Corporate spending has been evolving for years, putting more purchasing power in the hands of more employees with less oversight. But no one could have prepared for the ridiculously rapid   uctuations of the recent past.

New expense categories, new digital payment methods, new working environments and requirements — they all add up, and they all add complexity to your spend management processes. They also come at a time when cash ow and cost control are most critical.

Simple additions to your SAP Concur solutions, however, can keep you on top of your spending, increasing order and oversight across all your expenses. Here's how.

Spend Control

The key to control is visibility, but also you need solutions designed to work together.
